The London Daily Chronicle's financial review last week says that in the recent financial stringency in the American markets, European bankers placed credits with their New York agents amounting to £100,000,000. What portion of this sum was used to relieve the money market does not appear, but since the disbursements to that end-by the Washington Treasury Department were inadequate, it is believed that Europe averted a money panic in the United States. German credits alone amounted to half of those furnished.

Last month it was reported that the twinscrew first-class cruiser Spartiate, 11,000 tons, was to be the new flagship of the Australian station. The Loudon Daily Telegraph of the 13th ult. states that another ship of the same gize as the Sportinte, and of a somewhat similar power, goes to Australia, bringing the squadron to the level of the strength of the squadron on the North American station. The Times says that it is incorrect to say that the Spartiate is the new flagship of the Australian station, and adds that there is no present intention of relieving the Royal Arthur. The Times also states that Vice-Admiral Fanshawe sails for Anstralia early in December by a steamer of the Orient line.

Shooting began at half-past two o'clock under conditions which were by no means favourable from a marksman's point of view and which got worse rather than belter as the men went back. It was cloudy overheid and the light was noor though steady. Some rain fell. When the cards were returned it was found that the total score reached only 875, being 26 less than the score registered by the Hongkong team last year and 18 less than the score made by the Singapore team in the present match. Mr. J. Parkes took first honours with a total of 97. The arrangements in connection with the match were carried out by Mr. Mowbray S. Northcote. Appended are the detailed scores :--

The second to take place was the birthday of the Emperor of Japan which occurred on November 3rd and on which occasion speeches were again made and met with good receptions. FATAL COLLAPSE NEAR THE HARBOUR OFFICE.

The lengthy list of fatal building collapses in the Colony has been added to by one that occurred yesterday afternoon in Wing Lok Street, near the Harbour Office, resulting, so far as details at present go, in the death of one Chinese workman and the severe injury of four others, who were removed to hospital. On receipt of the intelligence at the Central Police Station, a relief gang under Sergeant Garrol was despatched to the scene, and their labours resulted in the revealing of the casualties above reported. The groaning that could afterwards be distinctly heard coming from underneath the debris told its own significant tale, however, and showed that life still remained to be saved. The Hon. W. Chatham, Director of Public Works, and Mr. H. P. Tooker, executive engineer, were present, as were other members of the staff of the Public Works Department and Mr. A. Mackie, Chief Inspector of Police. The collapse, viewed on the spot, appeared to be that of a wall between Nos. 126 and 128, Wing Lok Street, where rebuilding operations are proceeding. Many tons of fallen material have been displaced, and the task before the rescuers was far from a light one. About an hour after the occurrence an egitated Chinese shopkeeper in the immediate vicinity told one of the No one had appeared. He should state to his Europeans present that his foki In Pin, whom he described as a boy of about 15 or 16 years of age, was under the débris. He had heard the poor lad's grouns, he said shakingly, and his response when his name was called. Half an hour later he returned to say that In Pin had turned up safely, and suggested by his manner and speech that further efforts in the direction | to proceed farther had to be taken out ten days of saving life were unnocessary, now that his foki was all right!

ENQUIRY INTO COLLAPSES OF HOUSES.

KOWLOON CITY ROAD.

I he enquiry into the fatal collapses of houses in Kowloon City Road on 18th July last was resumed yesterday afternoon before Mr. F. A. Hazeland. Mr. H. L. Dennys, Acting Crown Solicitor, appeared on behalf of the Government, while Mr. H. W. Looker represented the architects, Messrs. Leigh & Orange, and Mr. C. D. Wilkinson the contractors, the Loong | wound up by the Court under the provisions of Cheeng firm.

Mr. H. P. Tooker again went into the wit ness-box and completed the evidence began by him on the last occasion of the enquiry.

By Mr. Wilkinson-Witness was of opinion that the immediate cause of the collapse was the typhoon and the main cause the subsidence of the foundations, consequent on the heavy fow of water. If the upper part of a wall had a tendency outwards, it was probable that the that might explain why the remaining portion of the collapsed wall at No. 30 was out of plumb. Witness was satisfied as to the quality of the material used; in his opinion it was good.

By Mr. Dennys-The wall through which one of the tis-rods had been pulled was eighteen inches thick, but the fact of its being so pulled through did not necessarily show that the brickwork was particularly wet. Hon. W. Chatham, Director of Public-Works, was the next witness. THE WA HING BILVER MINING CO., LD. In the matter of the Wa Hing Silver Mining Co., Ld., and the Companies Ordinances 1865

Mr. T. Morgan Phillips, barrister-at-law, (instructed by Mr. H. W. Looker, solicitor), appeared in support of a petition for the winding-up of the Company. It was the petition, be said, of Wong Chi Tong, a judgment creditor, and he also appeared for the other creditors. who desired the Company to be wound

In these circumstances the unsatisfied creditor was entitled to a winding-up order. The necessary advertisements had been issued, and the learned Registrar was satisfied as to that.

His Lordship asked if there was no appearance on the other side?

Mr. Morgan Phillips said that on the previous day Mr. Looker had had notice from Mr. Holmes, solicitor, that certain creditors of the Company intended to appear upon the hearing. Mr. Morgan Phillips-Very well, your Lord.

His. Lordship-This is a petition by one Wong Chi Tong, a mining engineer, for the winding up of the Wah Hing Silver Mining Company, Limited, on the ground that the Company is unable to pay its debts. It appears that the petitioner brought an action against the Company for services rendered and last February obtained judgment for $1,300 or $1,400. The execution was of little avail to the petitioner as the assets available were not nearly sufficient to satisfy the judgment. Meetings have since been held, and the majority of the shareholders appear to wish that the Company should be the local Companies Ordinances, 1865 to 1889. The necessary preliminary advertisements appear to have been duly inserted and the necessary formalities observed, and theref re I will make the order for winding-up.

A SERIES OF TRAGEDIES

The death occurred in Shanghai on the morning of the 3rd inst. of Mr. Herbert Augustus Cooper, pilot of the Messageries Maritimes Company, who was well known in Hongkong as well as in Shanghai. A remarkable series of tragedies has overtaken the Cooper family. all of them men of five physique, and this occurrence is only a chimax to what has gone before. NORTHERN NOTES.

The following items are from the P. & T. Times of the 31st uit :--Attention is drawn to the "Manchurian Revival" which the Empress Dowager is undertaking under the advice of Yung Lp.

The S. Andrew's Society at Tientain has been organised, and will give a ball on the 28th inst. A volunteer fire brigade is being organised at Tientsin.

The Governor of Shantung objects to foreign consuls at Chinanfu, as it is not an open port. The premium on foreign cheques touched 29 per cent. on the 30th. Over 15,000 tons of mining gear and railway stock have been sent up to the Peking byndicate's works in Housn.

A 700-ton lighter, the Saxon, was safely launched at the Taku Tug and Lighter Co.'s vard on the 28th uit.

We grieve to say that at the very last another of those lamentable fatalities which have so frequently befallen the men of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers during their residence in North China, occurred at Taku Bar. The lighter taking on board the baggage at the Bar had to drop astern in consequence of the heavy sea : one of the men in charge at 11 p.m. jumped overboard, and though his comrades made every attempt to save him, he was not seen again. He belonged to the Peking detachment. His name was Williams.

Rumours are current in Paking that the Board of Revenue has found the funds for a small branch line from Kaopei-tien on the Lu-han line to Heiling, which is a township up on the Kalgan road and not far from the well-known Western Ming Tombs. As far as we can discover, the new branch is chiefly for the Court's convenience, and is neither to be built nor administered by the Belgians of the Lu-han. There is a good deal of vagueness in official circles as to the object and management

The latest news current about Tung Fuhsiang is sent down by the Governor of Shensi and Kansu in a private despatch to Peking, and as a matter of course is immediately published. Tung is described as being at Hochentze, round which place he has built a strong wall and also deepened the most. He has gathered most of his old troops around him and his force is estimated at some 60 battalions well armed and supplied with ammunition. A Prefect of Shensi had some private intercourse with the general at the Governors' request, and Tung informed him that before he would dream of giving up his position he should require four things. 1.—That the Court be given to understand that whatever he did in 1900 was by Prince Tuan's order. 2.—That all his adherents civil) be given positions to keep them contented. 3.—That a certain Ma Um-l'ang, his enemy, be sent-to IIi 4.—That the soldiers who have, refused to be disbanded by Imperial order be paid in full. We should say that the above conditions are a Chinese equivalent for a declaration of defiance.

SAKHALIN, THE RUSSIAN CONVICT ISLAND.

Renter's representative has had an interview with Mr. Charles H. Hawes, who is believed to be the last Englishman to visit the Russian penal settlement of Sakhalin, and the only one to explore the interior and north-eastern coast of the island. Mr. Hawes had been travelling in Corea, when he decided to visit the istand. with a view to studying the natives and also of observing the condition of the criminal settlers. From Khabarovsk he proceeded with a convoy of exile barges, and was landed at Nicholaevsk, opposite Sakhalin. Mr. Hawes says:---

My object was to proceed to the extreme north east part of the island to study some un penal system, per se, compares on the whole in this convict island, and, with the exception of the clearings round these, pracor reindeer sleighs in winter. Such journeyings one is never safe from the escuped convicts.

I spent several days in Alexandrovsk where as in the other settlements, murder goes on with impunity. During my stay four people whom met were murdered. Almost every one in the streets is a criminal, for, with few exceptions, only the worst type of priconers are sent to Sakhalin-certainly besides convicts, ex-convicts, their wives and children, and the officials, there are probably not a dozen free-born individuals on the island. Of murderer, alone there are at least eight thousand, and one morning I passed a man in the street of whom I was warned to be careful, as he had already killed eight people.

It is no exaggeration to say that the majority of the officials are the dregs of the service-in too many cases drunken and brutal. The Russian Government has recently been made aware of this state of things, and has practically corroborated my statements in sending the Court of Irkutsk to try almost the entire con vict staff for forgery, trund, embezzlement, and worse. I went over some of the prisons. Despite continued contradictions that such a thing exists, there are still two wretched prisoners chained night and day to wheel-barrows, Alexandrovsk prison there were six hundred convicts packed in four apartments, each constructed to hold about fifty persons While I was on the island nearly 1.800 fresh prisoners arrived, mostly for this prison, so its subsequent condition can perhaps be imagined.

It is known that the Tsaritsa is greatly interested in her work, and probably this is the reason why she does not meet with as much active hostility from the officials in Sakhalin as might be expected.

I met with no hostility from the natives, whom I found to be friendly and interesting. The following is from a letter by Mr. Augus Hamilton in the Pall Mall Gazette :--The statement that Russia would hand over "anchuria as far as the Liao River, which the Russian Legation in Peking has lately circulated, cannot be taken as finally deciding the matter, insomuch that this expressed intention does not rest re to China any appreciable portion of Manchuria. Such a definition of the territory which is to be handed over is unsatisfactory. It imples the existence of restrictions, which by confirming China to the watershed of the Lino River, introduce no As the result of enquiry, I found that the substantial improvement upon the present the Chinese officials of Peking and Hunan in three-thouged whip with leaden ends, known situation. For all practial purposes the arrangeas the "plet," the use of which is f rbidden in ment will confirm Russia in occupation of the Russia and is dying out in Siberia, is in general three provinces of Manchuria. With this instrument two women were | beyond the part of Fengtien province which flogged in February last, whose accusers, two lies upon the west of the Liao, no other territories come within the provisions of this engagement. However convenient an adjustment of this character may be to the Russian administration of Manchuria, it does not coincide with the spirit of the letter of the proposals which have been made to Russia in one stormy night on which I was returning to respect of her occupation of Maucharia. Under the Anglo-Russian Declaration and Additio....l Note of 1899, in respect of the Pokiug-Newchwang Roilway, Russia, while securing height. At the same time, however, it excludes, none the less effectually if indirectly accomplished the junction of the British-Chinese scheme with Makdeh, now become an important military depôt as well as a station on the Manchurian system. It checks the possibilities of competition by determining the Chinese sphere to be encompassed within a natural frontier, falling considerably short of the rich agricultural regions, which the Russian railway purposes to tap for itself. It is an exceedingly astute arrangement which Russia has proposed, and one which will affect British interests most disastrously. The aim of our policy in China is avowed to be the maintenance of the open door. The Russian occupation of Mancharia has prevented its realisation in respect of these regions. British trade has in consequence suffered, and should the Liao River become the determining frontier between Chinese and Russian territory, no appreciable modification of the present condition of affairs will have been introduced into the situation. The acquiescence of the British Minister in the proposed arrangement must be deduced from the fact that the division of the Peking. Newchwang line, which was in our hands, has been restored already, taking effect from the day that the Russian pledges were carried out. But the railway is no longer the cardinal point in the situation. Indeed, British interests in the markets of Manchuria are threatened with total eclipse, if Kussia be allowed to absorb these provinces. . . Aside, and in addition to this violence of administration, they have emptical the workshops attached to Shanhaikwan and Newchwang appropriating, in the process of removal to Port Arthur, more than one hundred thousand pounds' worth of rolling stock. machinery and materials for the needs of their Manchurian system. In view of the respresentations which have been made in the interests of the Peking-Newchwang line, it is to be hoped that, when the contemplated restoration has been completed, some account and reckoning will be given of the very valuable effects which the Russian authorities have sequestrated in the interim of their occupation of the railway. It is idle to suppose that Russia contemplated any extensive evacuation of the Manchurian provinces.

SPORT AND ANECDOTE.

BY AN OLD FOGEY.

"WE'LL PLAY AT HOWLS."

"Come, Charmian, let us to billiards," is a line oft quoted to show that the Bard of Avon had knowledge of the fascinating game of billiards, though there is every reason to doubt that the immortal William had any acquaintance with the delicate, dainty recreation as we conceive it in these days. I should not in the least and ancient game of bowls. The Queen and two ladies are in the Duke of York's garden when the following dialogue occurs:-

The Queen: What sport shall we devise, liers in this gorden.

To drive away the heavy thought of care? Lady: Madame, we'll play at bowls. Queen: "Twill make me think the world is full of rubs,

And that my fortune runs against the bias. Surely the man who panued those lines had knowledge of the gentle art of bowling on the green, as he could easily have done, for does not Strutt Navy Contractors, Shipchandlers, Szil- in his Sports and Pastimes of the People of England tell us that bowling was un invention of the middle ages? This famous author traced the game back to the thirteenth century, and learned men have tried to prove in learned oncycloprodias that greens were first laid down in England. At any rate, this pleasant diversion has an ancient and honourable lineage in the openair, while it is very certain that Shakespeare knew that the woolen bowl was heavier on one side than the other-that there was a bias in the ball to make it roll and pull in a certain direction. In The Taming of the Shrew we have another reference to the "bias" of bowls. But neither the sweet bard of Avon nor any other writer that I know says aught by the open disparagement, suggestion. or inmaendo against the beauty, the simplicity, and the honesty of bowls. I like well the phrase in Love's Labour Lost when Sir Nathaniel is described as "a marvellous good neighbour, and a very good bowler." A man who can be described as a good neighbour and a good bowler is not vicious, is not selfish, and is not a braggart and a gambler. I do love a game with the jack and the woods, and a worthy friend. "Here in this garden," soith the Queen in King Richard II. I like this phrase because to me there is such a suggestion of restfulness and repose about such a place of amusement. The other day I stepped out of my domicile and adjourned to the sequestered secluded, and private bowling-green where do try and amuse myself. But let me tell you what a joyous time I had. WOODS ON THE GREEN. The green is at least fifty yards squire and convex in its surface. Were I to use the cant of the howling cult I should describe the lawn as "crowned." I mention this little matter basause some greens are dead level, but my or particular resort rejoices in a crown, a loafy privacy, and joyous flower beds on three sides of the four. Here I am remote from man and the prying and inquisitive eye although within two miles of the throbbing heart of a great commercial city. Here I meet a fellow scribe, a soft spoken kindly doctor, and a man of independent means. The latter is quite a contrast to the doctor, for he is rubicand of face, rather boisterous, bluff, hale and hearty. A typical Engbowler. We break up into pairs and we pursue the gentle exercise in the autumn air for three hours. We bowl a little ball of heavy wood along the green. This is called "the jack," and then we trundle larger balls, perhaps three pounds in weight, to see how near we can place them to the "jack." Those who get the nearest to this object a given number of times win the game. What could be more simple? But all pastimes look. really simple if stripped of embroidery. Does not Miss Mary Mitford wonder why there should be such excitement over a little bit of wood and leather as at cricket? And what is football but the punting and kicking about of an in flated ball P What is billiards but making the balls of ivory hit each other and roll into certain holes? What is golf but knocking a quining pill about a cow pasture and seeing who can find it first? In their rudiments all games are simple. The mere spectator would. never think there was the least art or patience required to bowl a beavy pieze of wood after a increased by the creation and issue of light ball of the same material and shape—but 60,000 New Ordinary Shares of $11 a miniature edition. And yet he should see how excited we two journalists can become, how ed and authorised to accept sucrenders of the doctor forgets his professional decoram and the present 60,000 Ordinary chares of etiquette, and how my English gentleman of the Company of $10 cach on which the case never feels a twings of rheumstism or thinks about the family skeleton in the family sum of Slu pand up thereon, be piven in cupboard while we are toying with the woods lien of and in erchance for each old on the green under a grey sky, in a grey light, share of $10 july paid up, and that and with the anthum leaves of many colours strowing the sidewalks. They never remind us while we gambol that we shall soon be in the sum of 50 cents be paid on the surrender sered vellow. Note the doctor who declares of the old share, and that the remainder that he plays lowls for exercise, the journalists who assert that they play because it is so refreshing, and the man of means who confesses that he plays because he likes it and because "there is a lot in it, friends." How eagerly they watch each bowl as it steals silently, steadily and evenly over the sward to the jack, how they twist and turn their bedies when they have bowled with the wrong bias, and when they have delivered

their wood too much to the right or to the left, | in my secladed club, green? I trow not. "Tis Some of the bowls propelled by the master hand ever so in all sport. of the doctor and the sportsman of leisure move as if they were alive and had just been sent on a mission. They jog along until they nestic quite close to the fock. The bowl might be whispering words of comfort to the little bowl or even " lissing" it, but others wander away, and meander around as if they took delight in being wilful, and keeping away by pure wilfulness and caprice from the spot we wished it to go to. It looks such an easy thing and yet the skill of the craftsman with bissed bowlers, and be surprised if Shakespeare was referring to a on what Shakespeare would call "a subtle game in which small balls were driven with a ground," as in Coriolanus is really remarkstick upon the ground, but there can be no two able. My skill is not great, but in my love of constructions placed on the passage in King | bowls and in my expacity for enjoyment of the Michard II., having reference to the beautiful green I yield to none. How I do laugh at my brother scribe when with terror stricken face he sees his bowls paryersely going anywhere but where wanted, and how he'e ides and chaffs mewhen I am a rank failure and yards away from the mark. The other day, as I have said, we played for three hours, during which we forgot our cures, our woes, our business trials, and our domestic calls. But next day when duty called us to take up the pen I felt light of heart, clear of head, and thoroughly refreshed for that work which must be done. It have no doubt the doctor had just the same expecience. Now this is what I call recreation. This is the enjoyment of bowls, fun on the green, social chatter, and a general sense of irresponsibility for the time being. We may not be able to play much, but we can and do amuse ourselves by our sport. And I m intain that I use the word sport in its first and true measing, for the verb "sport is defined in Chambers as to play, to frolie,

THE PROPESSIONAL BOWLES.

It is said that one half the world does not know how the other half lives. I wonder how many millions know that a very large number of monare professional bowlers, especially in the North, where everything seems to be reduced to a matter of money by the majority? Men not only see who can bowl this hip wooden ball nearest to the little "jack" for money stakes, but both they and their friends, let like fury upon every ball delivered. Really, when I read that in the gambling days of the late lamented Mr. Cr. ckford aristocrats wagered as to which spot of rain would run down the pane quickest, I do not think that we have advanced so much with all our boasted civilisation. We seem to bet on anything and everything in these days. I grant that these bowlers for money have wondrous skill in their casts, for they roll up within inches of the " jack," they cannon off one ball to enother, and they make all the group of balls fly in all directions if it be in their interest to do so. They have more roa is than one in achieving their object, for one professional may bowl a perfectly straight ball right-up-to-the "jack," and another may describe a semi-circle and still arrive at the same spot. A skilled person can bowl either straight or round by the judicious. use of the bias in his wood or bowl, and by carefully neting the "crown" and the subtlety of the green. To give some idea of the extent to which professional bowling on the green is carried let me tell that a handicap sweepstakes_ is decided each autuma at Blackpool. Now in 1900 no fewer than 688 men entered for this prize and bowled, while this year so many as 576; were in the lists. This tournament, which is conducted on the lines of the Association Football Cup, extends over several weeks. Early this month a Mr. James Ward, who is a publican, of Oldham, and a bowler for money, carried off the first prize from the other 575. as he alone remained undefeated. The entrance money brought in £144, and the promoter of the event gave an additional sum of £141. This made a sum of £285 to be divided into numerous prizes. As the winner, Mr. James Ward, of Oldham, took £50, but that in no wise represents the winner's emoluments, for there are bookmakers offering long odds on this battle every year. Mr. Jas. Ward could have supported. himself so as to obtain £500 for the expenditure of £2, and he could back himself in all his various ties. I do not know what he did, but a man seldom wins the renowned Black pool sweepstakes without capturing a big bag of shekels from the men who lay long odds. Now Mr. James Ward, of Oldham, who is 46 years of age is, I have no doubt, a worthy man, and in one respect he has set a fine example of perseverance; patience, and try, try, try again. He first nominated himself for the Blackpool bowling handicap in 1883, but mark the fact that he never won a single game notil 1887, when he was among the last twelve. After three more years of striving, that is in 1899, he was one of three in the less two stages, but he lost. Twelve years later he realises him ambition. We may not approve of professionalism at such an ancient and simple sport, and we may discountenance the betting, but we cannot help almiring a man who tries to win an event for nineteen years. Such an one must, on the whole, he a good beighbour, and a good bowler. So much for the 'crownel" green game, the poor mun's sport of Laucashire and Yorkshire, Chashire, Warwickshire, and a few other places. But do you think | CARBOLINEUM-AVENA RIUS that the professional bowler obtains the rest and refreshment out of his game, with all his

added skill, that I do out of my rustic a ttempts

VARIETIES OF BOWLING. I have laid so much emphasis on this "crowned" green game because in Scotland, in the South of England, and in faraway Australia perfectly fint greens are de riqueur. This. game appears to me very tame by comparison, and yet I am free to acknowledge that it ha most enthusiastic devotees, for there are hundreds of clubs in Glasgow alone. This is the style of the pastime which Dr. W. C. Grace has. taken up, and which Major Wardill encourages on the lawn of the Melbourne Cricket Club in. Australia. Indeed, there is an Imperial Bowling Association, and their great idea is international matches between England and Australia. A team of Colonial bowlers visited England a year or two ago, and Mr. S. E. Yelland, of Brighton, who has done so much for the encouragement of flot groon bowling, assured me that that trip cest £7,000. Surely, then, there must be tramendous interest in the Commonwealth of Australia in this form of the pastime which has been in vogue in Scotland for two hundred years. A green was established at Hadding ton in 1709; and a game which can exist for so long has more in it than meets the eye. But all the same, give me the stretch of turf within "crown," and above all been companions on the sward. "W.G." whom I have just mentioned is by no means the crack on this level mead that he is on our cricket pitches, and when he went on tour with the a tie in any rink, for the Scots always play in rinks with a skipper," the same as they do at-curling. Still, it is an experience in life to meet the genial Gloncester giant, to hear his full cheery voice, and to watch the greatest cricketer

the world has ever seen in an entirely new role. FOOTBALL FACTS AND FANCIES. Since I last wrote you West Bromwich Albion have climbed to the head of the English League, and I should not be astonished if they were to remain in that exalted position for some time, as they are a dashing, dexterous combination. How extraordinary it is to find West Bromwich Albion after these many years, and many adversities, once again the most powerful combination in the centre of the Midlands. At the time I write even Wolverhampton Wanderers are superior in rank to Aston Villa-and yet the Birmingham organisation has this season brought ita total points since the League was formed up to 500-to be exact, 502. No other club has earned anything like 500 points in League football, and it is a great pity that the Villa with such traditions and such resources should be so suffering from the want of capable players. It is said that every man has his price, and that money can buy anything, but evidently the fattest purse in England curnot purchase a ready-made football team. This is a joyous fact, for after all what football would there be in many of smaller towns if the most opulent could command success by the unloosening of their purse-strings? One feels sorry for the Villa. They have remained loyal to players, who have possibly outlived the highest. class of the winter game, and they are now sadly in need of able forwards and clover half-backs. Really is it not astonishing with between 33 and 40 professionals on their books, the Aston club cannot select a team which can do it justice. Four points in five matches and one victory is poor value for their salary list, and one positively trembles to think of the possibility of Iston Villa descending to the Second Division! But Sanderland were once in that precarious position, and Preston have long been. accustomed to advers ty. May the Villa ever be a gred such a fate! The first representative match of the season takes place to-day at Belfust, when the men of the Irish and English Leagues meet in battle array on the Cliftonville ground. The Inter-League encounter with Ireland has been played since 1894, and the Irish have yet to win their first victory, for Eng and have gained seven victories and drawn one game. But the consistent story of defeat never seems to trouble the Hibernian, who is nothing if no an excellent sportsman, In the Rugby Union code there is little activity yet, but next week I hope to give readers some impressions of football in Ireland. I shall not be bowling there.
